Ontario Teams Fight Alberta Forest Fires

Ontario forest fire teams, composed of 82 of the province's top forest fire fighters and management personnel have been sent to Alberta to assist weary fire crews there, Natural Resources Minister Alan Pope announced.

"Alberta has had severe forest fire problems this summer and because Ontario's forest fire situation has eased considerably we are, fortunately, able to offer our help at this crucial time," Mr. Pope said.

Six of the Ministry's top

10-man fire crews from Dryden, Thunder Bay, Sudbury and Huntsville, accompanied by their supervisors, were flown to Northern Alberta Sept. 15. Four four-man fire management teams from across the province were flown to Fort McMurray and problem areas of Northern Alberta on Sept. 11.

John Lloyd, MNR's fire management officer from Kemptville has also been sent to Alberta to act as liaison officer with that province's forest service officials.

Dorset collision, $3800 damage

DORSET — A two vehicle collision on the main street here Friday morning resulted in more than $3800 in damages.

Mrs. Georgina Baum of Dorset was southbound on the main street overtaking a southbound vehicle driven by Nancy Tebbly of Huntsville. Baum failed to see the signal of the Tebbly vehicle who was attempting to turn left and Tebbly did not see Baum's attempt to pass, hence the two cars collided.

Police report no injuries or charges in the mishap but set $3000 damage to the Tebbly vehicle and $800 to Baum's. PC Jim Solway.

Now that the summer season is over here, the Minden Detachment has had a much easier time on their shifts. The motor vehicle collision were down to just 13, with no injuries reported. General occurrences were also down to 82, including eight thefts, four break and enters, two lost and found property, two trespass complaints, one assault, one harassment, one liquor violation and three wilful damage complaints.

EDITORALLY SPEAKING

ABSURD, SENATOR

Senator Keith Davey, in a defense of the Kent Commission on newspaper ownership, says that the notion that the owner of a printing press has a right to print what he chooses is 'absurd.'

Without fully explaining the remark, Davey seems to infer that what is printed by the press should be under public scrutiny. Like the Kent Commission he would have some authority ending with the Liberal government — overseeing newspaper operation.

Davey's views of press freedom are not merely absurd — they are downright dangerous.

What he and the Kent Commission fail to realize is that press freedom is merely a part of freedom of speech.

Subject to the Slander Laws, (and perhaps, soon a few other restrictions called Human Rights laws) an individual in Canada still has the right to speak what he wants. So, too, he should have the right to print what he wants.

As a letter-writer to the Toronto Globe and Mail recently pointed out, Mr. Davey's view of absurd, taken to the limit, would also prohibit an individual from typing what he wanted on his typewriter. Or at least of using a copying machine to distribute copies of what he types to friends.

Of, course, the person on the typewriter, the person with the copying machine and the owner of a press have the right to print what they like.

Whether the owner of the press or a newspaper owner can make a living at it depends on whether people want to read what is printed — be it news or comment.

Fortunately, it still doesn't depend on whether Keith Davey or Pierre Trudeau approve of what is printed.

When small is not so small

By W. Roger Worth

How big, you may ask, is small business. The answer, of course, is that, in a national context, the impact of the country's small and medium-sized enterprises is very large indeed.

The numbers are staggering.

In 1979, for example, Canada boasted 443,000 business proprietorships (entrepreneurs operating as independents), with another 307,000 incorporated small businesses handling less than $2 million in sales.

There were another 89,000 self-employed professionals such as doctors, lawyers and accountants, 246,000 farmers, 27,000 fishermen, 32,000 salesmen and 13,000 self-employed entertainers.

The total in the small business category: 1.2 million firms.

It's true, 225,000 of these are tiny operations, chalking up annual sales of less than $10,000, but even excluding these, the number of smaller businesses still tops 932,000.

It's also interesting to note

Ottawa announces pension increases

Health and Welfare Minister Monique Bégin today announced increases in the Old Age Security pension, Guaranteed Income Supplement and Spouse's Allowance which will take effect in October of this year.

Under the new rate, the basic Old Age Security pension will rise to $221.74 a month from the existing $214.86.

The maximum Guaranteed Income Supplement for an individual or a married person whose spouse is receiving neither a pension nor a Spouse's Allowance, will increase to $222.62 from the current $215.72. Added to the basic pension, this will give a person receiving both the OAS and the maximum GIS a monthly total of $444.36.

The maximum Guaranteed Income Supplement for a married couple, both of whom are pensioners, will increase to $171.64 each from $166.32. Added to the basic pension this will give each married pensioner receiving the maximum GIS a total of $393.38, or $786.76 for the couple. The Guaranteed Income Supplement is paid to pensioners whose income, apart from the Old Age Security pension, is limited and the amount varies in relation to income.

The maximum Spouse's Allowance will increase to $393.38 from $381.18. It is made up of an amount equivalent to the basic Old Age Security pension and the maximum GIS at the married rate. It is paid to persons between 60 and 65 years of age who are married to OAS pensioners and meet residence requirements. Entitlement to a Spouse's Allowance, and the amount paid, is based on yearly income.

Where the pensioner spouse dies, the surviving spouse may be eligible for the continuation of the allowance to age 65 or until remarriage if the person has no income or a limited income.

Increases in Old Age Security pension and Guaranteed Income Supplement payments are calculated quarterly based on the cost of living.

that firms with fewer than 26 employees (93 per cent of the total number of businesses in the country), were responsible for a whopping 30 per cent of Canadian employment.

And firms employing between 26 and 250 people were responsible for another 30 per cent of total employment.

In addition to providing more than 60 per cent of the country's jobs, these smaller companies are adding employees, while many of the large multinationals are in fact shedding employees.

Ottawa and the provinces should note what's happening in the sector. While governments have been supporting large, high-profile companies such as Chrysler and Massey-Ferguson, smaller operators have been living by free-enterprise rules and, in some cases, falling by the wayside. Perhaps it is time our crucial small and medium-sized businesses received the kind of government attention they deserve.

Food for all

October 16 is World Food Day.

The Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations (founded in Quebec City on that day 36 years ago) has asked people around the world to observe World Food Day by becoming more aware of the problem of hunger and the need to increase efforts to solve it.

It is appropriate that the day should fall close to Thanksgiving, a time of plenty here in Canada when most of us are appreciating the blessings of our own share of Earth.

Few are as fortunate as we. Nearly 500 million people living in the world today are seriously malnourished — one out of every eight. Many millions die, not from starvation alone, but from the illnesses that prey on the underfed. In poor countries, one child in four does not live to celebrate a fifth birthday.

But what can I do, you might ask? Aren't there national and international organizations whose job it is to help improve this situation?

Yes, there are. But with increasing domestic problems in Canada and the other industrialized countries, these organizations are not getting the support — financially or morally — that they need. That is why, in the days leading up to October 16, Canadian volunteer groups, consumer and producer organizations, provincial and federal governments, and development agencies are organizing lectures, exhibitions, "hunger suppers" and other events to put the facts of the world food situation before the public.

You can help by taking notice of these events, by participating when you can, by simply educating your family and yourself to a situation that should not be allowed to continue.

"Food for all" is Canada's national theme for World Food Day. Wouldn't it be gratifying to do something, even a little thing, to help make this ideal become reality?

Natural' food factories (IDRC) — Miniature protein factories may soon swing into production in developing countries to feed livestock more efficiently than ever before.

The "minifactories" are yeast, bacteria, fungi, and algae that are grown for their protein content. Cells of these rapidly growing microorganisms also contain carbohydrates, fats, vitamins, and minerals. The great advantage of single-cell protein, as it is called, is that it can be produced from otherwise inedible or low-quality waste materials.

Working with a grant from Canada's International Development Research Centre, microbiologists at the University of Guelph, Ontario, and the International Centre for Tropical Agriculture in Cali, Colombia, are developing a method of turning starchy cassava (tapioca) and banana crop wastes into protein feed using a fungus.

The team hopes to perfect a process as simple as cheesemaking for use in rural areas of developing countries.

Redmen win home opener

Hatkoski snares 3 TD passes Redmen down Bulldogs 29-15

HALIBURTON—Under ideal fall weather conditions Thursday afternoon, the Redmen football team gave more than 300 fans a great deal to cheer about as they defeated the Brock Bulldogs of Cannington 27-15, for their second victory in the Kawartha West football league.

Haliburton rolled up a 24-0 halftime lead on the strength of three touchdown pass receptions by Mike Hatkoski and a 15 yard field goal by Tim Davies, then held off a determined effort by Brock in the second half to hold onto first place in the standings with four points.

The Redmen opened this game in the same manner as they did in Fenelon, scoring in the first minute. The Redmen defense led by Rick Choy threw Bulldog quarterback Dave Winnatoy for a yard loss on the opening play and on the second play Terry Crowe intercepted Winnatoy's pass at the Brock 35. Two plays later Hatkoski had his first TD when Tim Davies hit him in the endzone with a perfect strike from the 30. Davies converted and it was 7-0.

Brock then drove down the field and when they attempted a 15 yard field goal Choy blocked the ball and Haliburton recovered. Haliburton failed to capitalize on this turnover but on the next they scored.

Brock was third and 14 to go when the punter decided to run for a first down but was tackled by Choy. On the tackle Choy was roughed and a 15 yard penalty tacked on. With the ball on the 55 yard line Kelly Mitchell played quarterback, flipped the ball out to Davies in the backfield and he hit Hatkoski with a perfect pass at the 20 and Hatkoski went the rest of the way for the TD. Davies converted and it was 14-0, early in the second.

The next time the Redmen got the ball they drove to the Bulldog 15 yard line where Davies connected with a field goal and the count went to 17-0. Four plays later Davies dumped the ball to Hatkoski over the middle and he picked his way through many would-be tacklers to score a 45 yard TD and the half ended 24-0.

For the most part of the second half, Brock's line fullback Chris Mazza and quarterback Winnatoy went at the Redmen defense on the ground, resulting in two TDs. Brock drove 70 yards from the opening kickoff in the second half to score on a five yard run by Robbie Mitchell. Leo Spense converted and the lead was cut to 24-7.

Tim Davies intercepts an attempted third down gamble and two plays later was good on a 23 yard field goal making the score 27-7.

The Bulldogs then put together another fine running effort midway through the fourth quarter and scored on a one yard quarterback sneak up the middle. Winnatoy ran in the convert and the score was 27-15. The Bulldogs were successful on a short kickoff attempt but the clock ran out.

Minden loses to Bobcaygeon in championship at Cameron

CAMERON — Recently the Minden Seniors of the Haliburton County ladies softball league travelled to Cameron for their annual softball tournament. The Minden gals did extremely well making it to the championship game, defeating Cambray 19-8 in their first contest, then downing Pleasant Point Lakers 8-5 in the semi-finals.

This was as far as the local crew was to go however, as they dropped a hard fought 9-8 decision to the Bobcaygeon Juniors. Bobcaygeon got to the finals by downing Coboconk 9-4 in their tournament opener and then took the semi-final match with the Cameron Juniors 8-3. Cameron Antiques took the consolation final, beating Dunsford 3-1.

Scores for the day long tournament were: Bobcaygeon 9, Coby 4; Cameron Jrs. 13; Dunsford 2;

Offensively Mike Hatkoski was the games star scoring three TDs on four pass receptions good for over a 100 yards. Kevin Shapiera once again led the rushing attack with another 100 yard game. John Thompson also had a great game from the halfback position, breaking many tackles during the game for big gains. Once again it was Rick Choy who led the defensive team with many big tackles including a couple quarterback sacks and a blocked field goal attempt.

The Redmen now get their first big test of the season next Friday in Lindsay when they meet LCVI, always a powerhouse football team.

Plenty feeds few

(IDRC)—Can the world support 2½ times its present population? Yes and no!

United Nations experts say the earth has the physical capacity to feed 10½ billion people, the predicted leveling-off point of the world's population. Indeed, some estimates suggest that four times that number could be fed, with today's technology and land already in use.

However, the root of the hunger problem is not that there are too many mouths to feed, says the UN Fund for Population Activities (UNFPA), it is the difficulty of getting that food to people. Moreover, in many countries where malnutrition is prevalent, up to half the cultivated fields are used to grow export crops (coffee, sugar, etc.) for people who can afford them, rather than food for people who need it. Africa, the hungriest continent, is actually a net exporter of protein to Europe.

The world's underfed are estimated to number about 450-500 million or about one out of eight of all earth's citizens. Roughly 200 million are children under age 5, and 10 million of these are severely malnourished. The UNFPA expects that if present trends continue the number of undernourished people will rise by the end of the century.

HALIBURTON — ONTARIO

Ever wonder what causes the beautiful fall colours?

In the next few days, the woods of Haliburton County will be transformed into a wonderland of colour. Sumacs will turn crimson, maples fiery orange and birches brilliant yellow. It is an unparalleled spectacle that has drawn the awe of generations of Ontario residents.

Well what does cause it? How does that remarkable change come about? "It is all a matter of day length and temperature," says Dr. John Williams of the University of Toronto Botany Department. When days get shorter and brisker, leaves undergo a remarkable chemical change.

Chlorophyll gives them their green colour. And, when that certain combination of just the right ratio of daylight and darkness, and that critical temperature occurs, the chlorophyll begins to break down. It forms sugars and other substances.

But the important thing is that it loses its greenness. It no longer masks other colourful pigments in the leaf — notably anthocyanin. In the leaf vacuoles anthocyanin produces reds and oranges as soon as the green fades.

Gradually, the leaf stem is choked off by a layer of cork. And, in time, it falls off — its deterioration already well underway. "Frost hurries things up," says Williams. "A frost can turn a green forest into a blazing showpiece."

But in warm frostless falls, the colour change takes place gradually. It drags on and on. Fall colours are a universal phenomenon. They are pretty drab in some places, but even in the Canadian Arctic, the landscape comes alive in vermillions and rusts in late August and September.

In some regions, leaves simply turn brown-yellow and fall off. But in central Ontario, thanks to our maples, we get a spectacular display of nature at her very best.

Officials of the Ministry of Industry and Tourism say that it is a tremendously popular event in late September, they are swamped in requests for information on the best places to see colourful sites. It is but a brief show of glorious colour and we are lucky to be bathed in it.
